Talking Objects

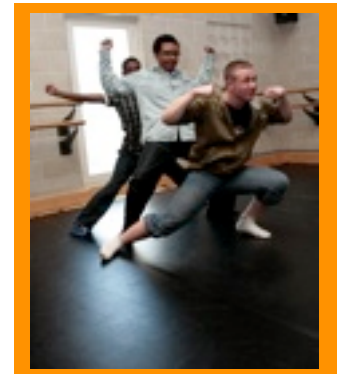

Coral was invited to lead part of the British Museums 'Talking Objects' project. This project was part of a larger programme at the Museum called A History of the World in a 100 Objects. Coral collaborated with Westminster Kingsway College and the Museum team to explore a 13 thousand year old object, 'The Swimming Reindeer'. The work was performed at the Museums great hall.

Professional Development

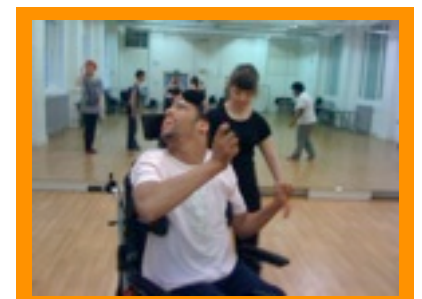

Coral and Project Volume completed the Visual Voices training programme. This phase of the project involved Coral leading 6 days of intensive workshops to share the skills learnt from the course with other dancers. DJ continued his professional placement and in March worked with Random dance on its 'Encounters' project.
