Exceptional Performance

Corali event at the Queen Elizabeth Hall

Corali was thrilled to be able to present its most recent work at the Queen Elizabeth Hall Foyer hosted by the South Bank Centre.

The event comprised:

'One of a Kind' a trio of dance films shot on location in London;

'Jump, Turn, Speak!' the premiere of Samuel Dore's documentary about Corali's Big Dance 2012 project; 'Thinking Along the Same Lines', a group performance created in Corali's weekly class; and Little Bird a duet premiered for LOGOMO in Finland.

Jessica Santer, Dance and Performance Participation Producer, finished the evening with an invitation for Corali to return!

Now In Production

Hosted by Tate Modern, Corali and Intoart worked together over four days to talk about how they make work. From the similarities that arose, Corali and Intoart explored how they each use pattern and colour in their practice and created a short performance to present the findings to an invited audience. Because the project was so successful, both groups plan to come together again for further exchange and research.
